COMPETITIVE COMPARISON

Tawaslo vs The String

What they have that we do not, and what we have that they do not.

A side by side look at two Arabic first platforms that sit in different categories but overlap on inbox, analytics and the GCC market.

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

The short version

Tawaslo and The String are often mentioned together because both are Arabic first platforms built for the GCC, but they are not the same kind of product. They solve different jobs and a single business could happily use both.

Tawaslo

Social media management

- Publish, schedule, plan content
- AI captions and images
- Client approvals
- Bilingual social reports.

The String

Marketing automation & CRM

- Capture leads from ads
- Automate follow ups
- Email, SMS and WhatsApp campaigns
- Chatbots and sales pipeline.

Where they overlap: a unified social inbox, analytics, ad awareness and a shared Arabic first, GCC focus. Where they diverge: Tawaslo is the place you create and publish content and get it approved. The String is the place you capture leads and automate marketing and sales. The headline takeaway is that we are not fighting over the same core, and our content and publishing layer is something The String does not offer at all.

THE GAPS TO WATCH

What The String has that we do not

- Marketing automation engine

Lead journeys, sequences and workflow automation that nurture a contact from first enquiry to repeat purchase. This is their core and we have nothing like it.

- CRM and lead management

A full pipeline that captures leads, scores and segments them, assigns them to sales reps and tracks every deal. We manage content, not contacts.

- Outbound campaigns

Email, SMS and official WhatsApp Business API campaigns from one place. We do not send marketing messages at all.

- Lead capture from ads + ROAS

Direct connections to Meta, TikTok, Snapchat and Google ads, pulling leads in automatically and reporting cost per lead and return on ad spend. Our ads view is still early.

- Chatbots and builders

Chatbots, landing page and pop up builders and signup forms. A whole top of funnel toolkit we do not offer.

- Broader unified inbox

Their inbox spans TikTok, Snapchat, Instagram, Facebook, Google and website reviews. Ours covers Instagram and Facebook today.

- Live mobile apps

Native iOS and Android apps already on the stores. We are web first for now.

What Tawaslo has that they do not

- Real social publishing & scheduling

We publish and schedule to Instagram and Facebook, feed, Reel, Story and carousel, with more networks coming. The String does not publish social content at all.

- AI content creation

Bilingual AI captions, post ideas, hashtags, and AI image generation right inside the composer. Their automation is about messages and journeys, not crafting social posts.

- Visual content planner

A drag and drop calendar to plan a whole month at a glance and auto publish at the best time. They have no content calendar.

- Client approval workflows

Send a client the whole month as one secure link, they approve or request changes from any device, and approved posts publish themselves. A defining agency feature The String has no answer to.

- Agency multi client workflows

Separate workspaces per brand, instant switching, and client ready magazine style social reports. Built for agencies and freelancers.

- Social listening & media library

Live monitoring of mentions, hashtags and keywords, plus a shared media library. Tools The String does not carry.

- True bilingual depth + transparent pricing

Fully bilingual Arabic and English with right to left throughout, and clear public pricing with no card needed, versus their demo led, quote on request model.

STRATEGY & BATTLECARD

So what do we do with this

The honest read: we are not in a head to head fight. The String owns lead generation, marketing automation and sales. Tawaslo owns content creation, publishing and agency client work. The real risk is not today, it is if The String adds a social scheduler on top of their automation base. The real opportunity is to be unmistakably the best at the content and agency layer they will never prioritise.

We win when the buyer needs to...

- › Create, schedule and publish social content
- › Plan a content calendar across brands
- › Get client sign off before posting
- › Generate captions and images with AI
- › Run an agency with many clients
- › Produce branded social reports

They win when the buyer needs to...

- › Capture leads from paid ads
- › Run a CRM and sales pipeline
- › Send email, SMS and WhatsApp campaigns
- › Automate follow ups and journeys
- › Deploy chatbots and landing pages
- › Track cost per lead and ROAS

Three moves for Tawaslo

- Lean into the moat. Make client approvals, AI bilingual content and the agency workflow so good they become the reason to choose us.
- Close the soft spots. Broaden the inbox toward TikTok and reviews, ship mobile apps, and mature the ads and ROAS view so we are not exposed where we overlap.
- Position, do not collide. Tell the market we are the create and publish layer. A business can run The String for leads and Tawaslo for content, and we can explore an integration rather than a war.
